Scripture Reading New Testament: Ephesians 4: 1-16 - Reader Lynn Sharpe

<sup>1</sup>I therefore, the prisoner in the Lord, beg you to lead a life worthy of the calling to which you have been called. <sup>2</sup>with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another in love. <sup>3</sup>Making every effort to maintain the unity of the Spirit in bond of peace. <sup>4</sup>There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called to one hope of your calling. <sup>5</sup>one Lord, one faith, one baptism; <sup>6</sup>one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all. <sup>7</sup>But each one of us was given grace according to the measure of Christ's gift. <sup>8</sup>Therefore it is said, "When he ascended on high he made captivity itself a captive, he gave gifts to his people."<sup>9</sup>(When it says, "He ascended", what does it mean but that he had also descended into the lower parts of the earth? <sup>10</sup>He who descended is the same one who ascended far above all the heavens, so that he might fill all things.) <sup>11</sup>The gifts he gave were that some would be apostles, some prophets, some evangelists, some pastors and teachers, <sup>12</sup>to equip the saints for the work of ministry, for building up the body of Christ, <sup>13</sup>until all of us come to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to maturity, to the measure of the full stature of Christ. <sup>14</sup>We must no longer be children, tossed to and fro and blown about by every wind of doctrine, by people's trickery, by their craftiness in deceitful scheming. <sup>15</sup>But speaking the truth in love, we must grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ, <sup>16</sup>from whom the whole body, joined and knit together by every ligament, with which it is equipped, as each part is working properly, promotes the body's growth in building itself up in love.

PRAYERS OF CONFESSION

God, we have a home in You; We have a family in You; We have a place to belong; to know and be known, to love and be loved. We are so grateful for this awesome gift. But, too easily, we forget the benefits it brings. We might forget our place, and doubt Your love; Remind us, and all who feel neglected by You, that we are engraved on Your hands. We might forget who we are, and fail to care for ourselves; Remind us, and all who feel worthless, that You have called us by name. We might forget our connectedness; Remind us, and all who would exclude, oppress and condemn others, that we are all made in Your image, and we are all one body. AMEN.

Sent forth by God's blessing, our true faith confessing, the people of God from this dwelling leave. The service is ended, O now be extended the fruits of our worship in all who believe. # NOTES ON THE TEXT

Ephesians 4:1-16

There is much to say about this text because so much has been offered. Up to this point, everything offered in chapters 1-3 has been a gift. This letter to the Ephesians begins with Paul saying “Grace to you and peace”. And from there every line adds more bread to an already overflowing basket. Chapters 1 and 2 give us the announcement and extensive elaboration of the many aspects of God’s grace as it has been poured out upon us. Chapter 3 opens with Paul’s own self-description as one whose very imprisonment is a sacrifice of love toward those to whom he writes. That chapter closes with an assurance that Paul is giving something else to the church—prayer. Indeed, the very text is almost a gift of praying. No other passage in the entire New Testament is so fully saturated with a sense of the blessedness of God’s people in the church. Reading chapters 1-3 truly gives us a feeling of having been richly gifted. But receiving even the most beautiful and sought-after gift can make us feel awkward if we are not allowed to express due thanks for it. Chapter 4 gives us an opportunity to respond with thanksgiving.

I. The Great “Therefore”

In verse 1, the writer states, “I therefore . . . beg you to lead a life worthy of the calling to which you have been called.” In this case, the word “therefore” is the fulcrum balancing all that came before with all that follows. It is the center point between gift and task, call and response, blessing and gratitude. In Luke 19, Jesus shows love to Zacchaeus; therefore, Zacchaeus redistributes his wealth. In 1 John we are told that God first loves us; therefore, we are able to love. In Acts, the Holy Spirit is given to the church; therefore, the church goes out in mission. And in Ephesians we are reminded that God has showered us with grace and blessings (chapters 1-3); therefore, we can respond with gratitude (chapters 4-5).

II. Worthy Means Shared

The way the writer talks about responding to God’s overwhelming initiative is by asking for a “worthy” life in response. By “worthy,” the writer means living cooperatively with others. All the virtues enumerated here address what Bonhoeffer referred to as “life together.” Verse 3 sums up this emphasis nicely (“making every effort to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace”), and the verses immediately following have become the hallmark of the modern ecumenical movement: “. . . one body . . . one Spirit . . . one hope . . . one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all.” Asking for unity, however, does not require uniformity. On the contrary, the tribute to unity is followed closely by a marvelous litany of the diversity of gifts and graces given to the Body of Christ (v. 11). Many voices make up the gospel song. The goal of unity is not monotone Christians, but harmonizing Christians, whose variety of gifts “promotes the body’s growth in building itself up in love” (v. 16). Our best means of showing gratitude to God for all that has been expressed in three chapters of this letter turns out to be more horizontal than vertical. To appreciate God’s bounty to us is to live graciously with one another. (Paul R. Escamilla, adapted)
